This spells good news for Dominica, as the destination is positioned to welcome visitors given its impressive handling of the Covid-19 pandemic. Colin Piper, Director of Tourism at the Discover

Dominica Authority expresses excitement at the new flight. “This flight route affords Dominicans here and abroad, along with our leisure visitors, additional options when planning their travels to and from the Nature Island. This flight options puts another critical piece of the puzzle in place as we all look towards the eventual reopening of the tourism industry. ”

Dominica rolled out its Safe in Nature commitment programme in 2020 and more recently its Work In Nature Extended Stay Visa programme, both geared at increasing visitor arrivals to the destination while ensuring the safety of visitors and locals alike, and the inclusion of Dominica in this new Caribbean Airline flight schedule will undoubtedly lend to the sustainability of these programmes.
